

Attention FCC reviewers:

I would like to voice my protest concerning the recent petition by the National Association of Broadcasters (NAB) to limit satellite radio services. I became a satellite radio subscriber over a year ago precisely because regular radio programming has become a marketing nightmare, filled with advertisements, commercial playlists and strong-arm tactics used against smaller independent stations. I prefer to simply pay a programming fee and enjoy a variety of music, talk, weather, sports, and the various other channels which make up satellite radio. I feel that the NAB is trying to maintain their monopoly on the American citizen's radio enjoyment, and stifle innovative broadcasters that are broadening the market. Please don't let this travesty continue, and allow satellite radio services the same rights that all other broadcast services enjoy. Thank you for your time,
Angelo Dominguez
